

Syllabus for STAT 991-301

Spring 2020

Meeting time: W 12:00 - 1:30

Instructor: Anderson Ye Zhang (ayz@wharton.upenn.edu)

Description: Sign up and get half a credit for the department seminars you're already attending!

Schedule: Our scheduled seminars for the spring semester will be posted on <https://statistics.wharton.upenn.edu/research/seminars-conferences/>

Evaluation: You should plan on attending most of the seminars throughout the semester. (However, I won't take attendance.) You are encouraged to ask one question at one of the seminars during the semester. It doesn't have to be a deep question, and it's fine even if the speaker gives a one-word answer.

You can sign up to meet with one of the speakers (individually or with a small group of students) when they visit. This is of course subject to availability, and I'll e-mail the registered students each week when there are free spots in the speaker's schedule. If you attend a small group meeting, you don't even have to ask a question (but of course, being conversational is always encouraged)!